2011 ANNUAL GIVING

STRONG COMMUNITIES GROW FROM STRONG FOUNDATIONS

Carlos Hernández, Ph.D.

After receiving tremendous feedback from both the not-for-profit organizations we partner with and the communities we serve within Provident Bank's footprint, we are proud to once again present our showcase of community giving.

Last year was a particularly exceptional year for the Provident Bank Foundation. We surpassed $16 million in total giving since the Foundation's inception in 2003. This number represents funding to more than 1,000 organizations in our 11-county giving area. We are extremely proud to have provided these organizations with continued or new support over the last nine years.

Christopher Martin

In New Jersey, there are more than 43,000 501(c)3, not-for-profit organizations that focus on education, health and human services, community enrichment, social services, after-school programs, independent living, culture and arts, public safety, and much more. The stories included here represent only a fraction of the incredible work that New Jersey's not-for-profits do to enhance our quality of life.

We are honored to feature these organizations and hope that by reading their stories you will be inspired to become involved and make a difference in these communities.

EDUCATION

Oiada International utilizing videoconferencing technology to connect students with students in Africa

OIADA INTERNATIONAL, INC. – $7,500

History literally links Ghana and New Jersey.

Oiada International utilizes state-of-the-art video conferencing technology to connect students with students in Africa and the world. Through "live" face-to-face educational and cultural exchanges, students become excited about learning. Its telepresence centers bring the classroom to life for students while at the same time serve to increase their language arts, writing, public speaking, presentation, research, foreign language and critical thinking skills.

Oiada bridges the global digital divide and enables students to excel in education today and to become 21st century global leaders of tomorrow.

"Oiada gets students excited about learning and encourages the appreciation of other cultures," said Kendall Warsaw, executive director of the Provident Bank Foundation. "The technology literally brings the classroom to life and transforms traditional cultural lessons from pictures in books to live interaction."

The $7,500 gift from the Provident Bank Foundation supported Oiada's Ambassador Program, where students participate in "live" face-to-face exchanges with students in Cape Coast, Ghana and other parts of the world.

"I would like to thank the Provident Bank Foundation for their commitment to paving the way to a better future for the students in New Jersey," said Eric Jones, CEO of Oiada International. "Their gift enabled many students to interact with the world outside of their country, opening up new worlds to them and bridging the global divide."

COUNTY COLLEGE OF MORRIS – $10,000

For broadcasting and media studies students at the County College of Morris in Randolph, the vision of the future just became clearer. The Provident Bank Foundation donated $10,000 to the school's Foundation in support of its "Visioning the Future" initiative to construct a new media center. Once completed in January 2014, it will include a teaching studio, a main studio and equipment for both will be upgraded from the current analog format to high-definition quality. Students will be able to train on digital equipment and actively learn the skills they need to succeed in the field after graduation.

MONMOUTH UNIVERSITY – $5,000

Unlike conventional tutoring, the Supplemental Instruction (SI) program at Monmouth University in West Long Branch is a free, peer-facilitated program designed to help students succeed in difficult courses. Instead of targeting "at risk" students, the program focuses on "at risk" courses, such as chemistry and economics. The $5,000 grant from the Provident Bank Foundation funded a two-day training course for SI leaders, who are upper-classmen that have taken the courses and lead the sessions. Of the students who participated in the program last year, 89 percent passed their course with a C or better.

LIBERTY SCIENCE CENTER – $12,000

The Provident Bank Foundation donated $12,000 to the "Partners in Science" program at Liberty Science Center in Jersey City to help high school students gain valuable research experience in the sciences. Now in its 26th year, the program places a group of 25 carefully selected high school students in an intensive, eight-week summer program, where they are paired with mentors in the field of science, health and technology. Held in a professional laboratory, the program takes students beyond basic textbook learning and instead offers them opportunities to contribute to research and other independent projects.

COMMUNITY ENRICHMENT

Rising Tide Capital entrepreneurs

RISING TIDE CAPITAL – $15,000

There are more than 24 million mom-and-pop businesses in the U.S., which account for nearly 18 percent of employment.

Recognizing the importance of supporting small business owners, the Provident Bank Foundation donated $15,000 to Rising Tide Capital, Inc. (RTC) in Jersey City, a not-for-profit that assists entrepreneurs in urban areas with starting and building strong businesses.

The organization goes beyond simply focusing on access to capital by equipping individuals with the skills and tools they need to succeed.

“A deep-rooted community institution like the Provident Bank Foundation understands that long-term economic prosperity is created from the ground up,” said Alex Forrester, co-founder and chief operating officer of Rising Tide Capital.

“The individuals we serve often have marketable skills and a great idea for a business, but don’t have the training and support they need to transform their idea into a profitable business.”

A study conducted by RTC in 2010 found that within one year of receiving services, clients experience an average of 80 percent increase in business sales and 14 percent increase in household income.

Essentially, RTC is able to generate $3.80 in local economic impact for every $1 invested in its programs by funding partners.

“We recognize that small businesses are the backbone of our economy,” said Kendall Warsaw, executive director of the Provident Bank Foundation. “Rising Tide Capital does an amazing job of providing high quality education and instruction that nurtures new, successful entrepreneurs.”

ALGONQUIN ARTS THEATRE – $1,000

The Provident Bank Foundation donated $1,000 to Algonquin Arts Theatre in Manasquan to help expose local students to the performing arts. The grant supported its Acting Studio, an after-school drama program for Asbury Park High School (APHS) students to develop their artistic talents. Prior to this program, APHS was without a drama program for more than 10 years. In the last three years, approximately 120 students successfully produced six productions, including "Little Shop of Horrors" and "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown."

PATERSON HABITAT FOR HUMANITY – $2,500

Since 1984, Paterson Habitat for Humanity and its volunteers have built more than 230 homes, provided homeownership for nearly 250 families and housing for more than 1,000 residents. In the last year alone, the organization built 10 new homes and began construction on 11 others. To help further its mission to build energy-efficient, affordable homes for area residents, the Provident Bank Foundation donated $2,500 to Paterson Habitat.

SAINT CLARE'S FOUNDATION – $7,500

Having the latest technology in an emergency room is vital in order to provide the best quality patient care. A $7,500 grant from the Provident Bank Foundation to Saint Clare's Foundation in Denville helped the hospital make necessary changes in its Emergency Medical Services Department. Upgrades to the ambulance equipment included the installation of a Panasonic Toughbook, a durable laptop equipped with wireless technology that allows for the tracking of ambulances in order to dispatch the closest unit to emergency incidents.

ROBERT WOOD JOHNSON UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL FOUNDATION – $15,000

The Provident Bank Foundation helped the Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital Foundation expand the hospital's cardiac electrophysiology (EP) lab with a $15,000 donation. The grant provided new equipment for the EP lab's new Stereotaxis suite, which included a control room camera and protective gear for physicians and staff. Stereotaxis offers a revolutionary approach for interventional medicine that enables the treatment of more complex cases with a high level of precision and safety.

South Street Theatre Company (Morristown, NJ)

$7,500 to add pre-school classes at the Neighborhood House in its Morristown and Randolph locations that serve children from disadvantaged communities.

FAMILY SUPPORT & YOUTH SERVICES

New Jersey After 3 choir from the Boys & Girls Club of Clifton

NEW JERSEY AFTER 3 – $10,000

Learning doesn't have to stop at 3 p.m. every day.

That's the belief of New Jersey After 3 in New Brunswick, an organization that expands learning time for students through high-quality afterschool programs. As the first statewide public-private partnership of its kind in the U.S., New Jersey After 3 works with public schools and community-based organizations to teach effective, research-based curricula each day.

The Provident Bank Foundation donated $10,000 to New Jersey After 3 to help ensure children have access to its afterschool programming.

"Quality afterschool programs are vital in our communities. New Jersey After 3 provides students with the tools they need to advance toward high school and beyond," said Kendall Warsaw, executive director of the Provident Bank Foundation.

In fact, New Jersey After 3 expanded learning time by more than 40 percent for nearly 5,000 students in 34 public schools. Students receive three additional hours of instruction each day – this adds up to 40 percent more learning time per school year.

"Funding from the Provident Bank Foundation helped provide afterschool instructors with excellent training and helped students participate in service learning projects," said Mark Valli, president and CEO of New Jersey After 3. "These projects help connect student experiences with the academic lessons, reinforcing the knowledge learned during the school day. That is the kind of smart investment that Provident is all about."

EVA'S VILLAGE – $5,000

Each day, 350 people are served a hot, nutritious lunch at Eva's Village in Paterson. It's a safe, welcoming place where all who come are fed. Approximately 135,000 meals are served every year. It's a hefty program to maintain 365 days a year, especially since no one is turned away. To help Eva's Village with the purchase of food, the Provident Bank Foundation donated $5,000 to the organization.

BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS – $13,000

For more than a century, Big Brothers Big Sisters has brought brighter futures to children all over the country by pairing them with adult mentors who help them succeed and thrive in life. This year, the Provident Bank Foundation supported the Mercer County and Monmouth & Middlesex County chapters.

- Big Brothers Big Sisters of Mercer County: $1,000 to support its youth mentoring programs.
- Big Brothers Big Sisters of Monmouth & Middlesex Counties: $12,000 to support the chapter's expansion into Middlesex County.

THE MIDLAND SCHOOL – $1,000

To support a weekend of fun and independent living for students with special needs, the Provident Bank Foundation donated $1,000 to the Midland School's respite program. Students spend the weekend with chaperones, prepare healthy meals and enjoy recreational activities. Past outings included movies, local sporting events and pumpkin picking. Located in North Branch, Midland School serves 184 students ages 5 to 21 from 13 counties in New Jersey. The organization provides instruction in academic subjects, speech and occupational therapy and job training. As a result, 60 to 80 percent of Midland School graduates secure competitive employment in their home communities.

CHILDREN'S SPECIALIZED HOSPITAL FOUNDATION – $10,000

With 10 locations in New Jersey, Children's Specialized Hospital is the largest pediatric health care rehabilitation system in the U.S. The hospital serves 19,000 children a year affected by brain injury, spinal cord injury, premature birth, autism, developmental delays and life-changing illnesses.

Each of its outpatient sites is equipped with a modern therapy gym, individual treatment rooms and expert staff ready to help children with special needs and their families.

And thanks to a $10,000 donation from the Provident Bank Foundation, the hospital was able to purchase new therapy equipment for six of its outpatient centers.

"We are so grateful for this gift in support of our outpatient programs. The need for our rehabilitative services grows on a nearly daily basis, so it's important to have partners like the Provident Bank Foundation who share our commitment to children with special needs and their families," said Phil Salerno, president and chief development officer at Children's Specialized Hospital Foundation.

Specifically, the grant assisted in the purchase of WalkAble™ Lite Gait equipment, which helps therapists and parents improve a child's gait patterns, posture, balance, muscle strength and overall endurance levels.

"Children's Specialized Hospital improves the lives of thousands of children in New Jersey each day. We are delighted to help them obtain the newest and best technology available to give the best quality patient care," Kendall Warsaw, executive director of the Provident Bank Foundation.

ALZHEIMER'S ASSOCIATION – $10,000

The Alzheimer's Association Greater New Jersey Chapter works to eliminate Alzheimer's disease through the advancement of research and provides enhanced care and support for those affected by the disease. The Provident Bank Foundation donated $10,000 to its "Walk to End Alzheimer's" event and was later recognized with the "Circle of Honor" award at the chapter's annual dinner reception for its consistent support and contributions to improving the lives of those living with Alzheimer's disease.

CROHN'S & COLITIS FOUNDATION OF AMERICA – NEW JERSEY CHAPTER – $1,000

At Camp Oasis, a regional summer camp, everyone has Crohn's disease or ulcerative colitis – in fact, it's a requirement! A recent research project conducted by the organization found that campers made positive gains during camp in areas of self-reliance, independence and self-esteem, which carried over to their home and community settings. To help kids build friendships and self-confidence, the Provident Bank Foundation donated $1,000 to the six-day camp offered by the Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America New Jersey Chapter in Manalapan.

DENTAL LIFELINE NEW JERSEY – $2,500

Medicare does not cover dental care and Medicaid, the public assistance program for low-income individuals, provides little or no dental care for adults. The Provident Bank Foundation donated $2,500 to Dental Lifeline Network - New Jersey in East Brunswick in support of its Donated Dental Services program, which helps people with disabilities or who are elderly or medically fragile receive comprehensive dental care that they cannot afford. Funds from the grant are used to screen and match patients with volunteer dentists, coordinate the treatment process and arrange for assistance from specialists and laboratories.
